FARES UNFAIR? FURY AT 5% BUS PRICE RISE

County council claims increase will protect remainder of its services

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

BUS fares are set to rise across Harlow from next month in a move branded "another nail in the coffin" for struggling families.

The five per cent increase announced by Essex County Council seeks to "ensure the future" of vital bus routes in the town.

But, the news has been met with fears that families already stretched financially will find themselves in bigger trouble.

Gary Knott, director of Harlow Foodbank, said many of those seeking the charity's help spend the small amount of money they had on bus fares to collect their food.

Knock-on effect

He said: "My main concern is for the families who are struggling as things like this have a knock-on effect. We are seeing increases in fuel and supermarket prices and this is just another nail in the coffin to them."

"Some foodbanks are working with bus companies to offer families free transport to collect their food. But, unfortunately, none of the companies offering that support operate in this area. This rise is another amount of money which might mean people cannot get to us to collect their food."

Others in the town feel the increase is unreasonable when they believe the service first needs improving.

Councillor Ian Beckett said: "Any fare increase at this time simply adds to injury for the people of Harlow."

"Yes, we have buses, but I'd

NOT JUST THE TICKET: Councillor Ian Beckett has hit out at the rise in fares for users of Harlow bus services hardly call it a service – certainly not a 'public' service. Ask people in Pear Tree Mead, Brays Grove and Bush Fair who would like to be able to get a single bus direct to or from the train station, but can't. Ask young people who can't rely on their parents' taxi service, but would like to go to the cinema and come home safely and affordably at the end of the evening? Ask those heeding the sensible advice and not drinking and driving.

"I don't drive a car and would happily pay a fair fare for a 'proper' bus service. You remember, the kind we had before they were deregulated 30 years ago!"

This week's announcement states the cuts were to protect the 75 non-commercial routes, operated under the county council, and bring prices into line with commercial operators.

Vital

Councillor Eddie Johnson, Essex County Council cabinet member for highways and transport delivery, said: "We proposed these increases as a way of helping to ensure the future of a number of vital bus routes across the county. "We need to bring our bus fares up to date and more in line with commercial operators."

"After years of freezing fares, it is vital we make this small increase, otherwise there is a risk we could lose these bus services altogether."

Bus users turned to the Harlow Star Facebook page to express their disappointment at the news.

Tam Shilling said: "Bus fares are criminal in Harlow. I'm glad I can drive or walk to the town as by the time you wait for a bus, you can be in the town. From Bushfair to town

Darren Playle said: "If the buses were modern, clean and environmentally clean, people probably wouldn't mind so much."

"At the moment, they are filthy to ride, unreliable mechanically (constantly seeing them broken down), stink of diesel from leaks when following or riding and are an absolute disgrace. Never mind the shabby service. I'd rather walk, drive, ride my pushbike or crawl on my hands and knees."

■ The council consulted on the proposed rise in June and will bring the new prices – affecting adult and child returns, the Day Villager and 10/20 Journey multi-journey tickets – into operation on September 5. Further, similar rises are scheduled for April 2017 and April 2018.

QC hits back at swearing Nazi-saluting John Hennigan, 50

Judge responds when racist thug hurls abuse

Court Reporter

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A JUDGE gave as good as she got when a racist thug hurled abuse at her as she jailed him for 18 months for insulting a black Caribbean mother in Harlow.

John Hennigan, 50, facing sentence for his ninth breach of an Anti Social Behaviour Order in 11 years began his tirade from the dock at Chelmsford Crown Court by telling Judge Patricia Lynch QC she was "a bit of a *****".

She retorted: "You are a bit of a ***** yourself. Being offensive to me doesn't help."

Hennigan shouted back: "Go **** yourself."

"You too," replied the judge.

Banged

Hennigan then banged on the glass panel of the dock, performed a Nazi salute and twice shouted "Sieg Heil" before starting to sing "Jews gas them all...."

Judge Lynch, still speaking in a measured tone, said: "We are all really impressed. Take him down."

Hennigan, of Brockles Mead, Harlow, had pleaded guilty to breaching his Asbo on April 20, 2015 by using racist language towards Tanisha Ford.

His Asbo, which runs until further order, was made in April 2005. It prohibits him from acting in an anti-social way or from using racist language.

He has been locked up before for breaching it. Among his 23 convictions for 47 offences, there are eight previous breaches. Most offences happened in Harlow and include abusing a bus driver, pub door staff and raising an arm in a Nazi salute to a member of the public.

After another breach in October 2012 in which he did a Nazi salute in a central London pub and called black people racist names, an Old Bailey judge described him as "a disgrace to the values of this country".

Prosecutor Lynne Shirley told Chelmsford Crown Court that Tanisha Ford, a black Caribbean woman and her two children, aged eight and six and also black Caribbean, were in Market Square, Harlow.

She had recently moved to the town and was looking for a shop.

"She noticed the defendant waving at her. She approached him and he asked her if she was looking for a toilet. She said no, looking for Slimming World.

"He gave her directions. It seemed a normal conversation and she walked off but as she did Hennigan said 'I don't agree with inter-racial relationships. I like natural'."

"She was shocked and surprised and asked what he meant. He said 'I prefer white children'. She was shocked further."

"She said her children were natural and he said 'I'm just saying'," said the prosecutor.

"The incident made her feel very upset, hurt, out of place and distressed."

"It's not the first time she's been racially abused and it brought back unpleasant memories," said Miss Shirley. "She was alarmed her children had to listen to the comments."

Ms Ford decided to call police. Hennigan was identified and, while he was in custody, officers found comments he made "very unpleasant", the court heard.

Mitigating, Harry Warner urged the judge to spare Hennigan from immediate custody.

He said: "It's not worked in the past and is unlikely to work in the future."

He could benefit from working with probation, he added.

"He is a rather unfortunate man. He lives alone, is single and has been diagnosed and medicated for depression."

But Judge Lynch told Hennigan: "Your offence is thoroughly unpleasant and repeated breaches of this order using the most unpleasant of language and causing

Probe is launched after complaints

THE judge who called a racist "a bit of a *****" after his foul-mouthed tirade at her is being investigated for her behaviour after complaints.

The Judicial Conduct Investigations Office (JCIO), which handles complaints made about judges both inside and outside court, has confirmed they are looking into the extraordinary exchange at Chelmsford Crown Court between Judge Patricia Lynch and John Hennigan.

A spokesman said: "The JCIO has received complaints regarding HHJ (Her Honour Judge) Patricia Lynch's comment in court which will be considered in accordance with the Judicial Conduct (Judicial and other office holders) Rules 2014."

The spokesman said the JCIO "never comment on how many complaints have been received".

But readers were quick to support the judge for her comments.

distress.

"It's said custody would be distressing for you but it seems you never learn."

"This is the ninth time you have breached this order, the same offensive, racist comments and you don't deserve another chance."

It was at this point that Hennigan began talking directly to the judge.

He said he hadn't intentionally abused anyone "whatever you think".

Judge Lynch disagreed. She told him: "No-one cares what you think."

Hennigan responded: "I know they don't, that's why I've not had any help for years."

Judge Lynch said she wasn't going to argue with him and was sending him straight to prison.

It was then that Hennigan began swearing at her:

Tortoise goes on adventure while family are on holiday

WE recently had a very interesting case in the clinic. We unfortunately are very used to getting calls about stray cats and dogs but when we were contacted about a stray tortoise in Bishop's Stortford we were more than a little perplexed.

The lady who had found the tortoise had become concerned after she had seen it in her garden for several days.

All the neighbours had been contacted but no one had reported a missing tortoise. We collected the little chap and found unfortunately she was not micro-chipped.

We started to notify vets that a stray tortoise had been taken into our care and sure enough it was not long before the owners came forward. It turns out they had been on holiday and only just returned so had no knowledge she had embarked off on an adventure.

Thankfully she has returned to her home and has been reunited with her companion. It comes as a surprise to a lot of people that tortoises can be micro-chipped but they can.

If you have an unusual pet please seek veterinary advice on micro chipping as all animal can be chipped in some way.

We have changed our vet centre opening times and we now take appointments. If you wish to make an appointment please call our clinic and we will book you in. If you are a new client you need to bring your proof of the receipt of benefit and address to our clinic and we will register you as a client.

Our vet is currently taking appointments for Monday 10.30-1.30, Thursday and Friday 10am to 1pm. We also offer full vaccination and micro-chipping. We are still offering neutering vouchers starting at £10 so please be kind to your cat and get them neutered. Not only does it stop unwanted litters but also helps protect male cats from FIV.

Can you help Peter find any long-lost relatives?

79-year-old adopted as a baby hopes for family reunion

Laura Burge

laura.burge@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A WAR veteran who was adopted as a baby is now looking for his family after nearly eight decades of wondering where he came from.

Peter, who turned 79 on Saturday, is trying to track down the relatives he has never met, including a half-brother believed to be from Bishop's Stortford, and aunts and uncles believed to have lived in Harlow.

He is being helped on his quest by kind-hearted neighbour Dawn Vaughan, who contacted the Star to enlist readers' help.

"He's such a lovely man, and he said to me, 'Before I meet my maker, I would love to know if my mum went on to have another child, and if I have any brothers or sisters'," she said. "It would just be so wonderful to reunite him with somebody from his family."

"He's well known in the village. He's just a really lovely man."

"He's just so kind and smiley, and you never see him sad or saying anything bad about anybody."

Researching

"I would just love to do something nice for him."

Dawn has been researching Peter's family history, taking to ancestry.com to find out more.

She has discovered that Peter, who served in the Army, has a half-brother called Sidney Onslow Haddow, who lived in Bishop's Stortford until 2004 and was born in 1942.

His aunts and uncles on his mother's side, who have or had the surname "Wood", are believed to have lived in Harlow.

"He never knew why his mother gave him away, and he wants to know if there are any blood relatives out there," added Dawn, 58.

"It would be great if we could find somebody he is related to."

"He would love to know if his mum went on to have any other children."

Peter's birth mum, Florence Daisy Wood, was born in 1901. She changed her surname when she married William John Haddow in 1942, and had several brothers and sisters - John, Charles, Ernest, Robert, Ida, Violet Maude, Sidney Onslow and Herbert George.

Poignantly, when Peter was born, she named him Sidney Onslow Pearsall - the same first names as his half-brother and uncle.

"I said, 'To me, that says she gave you away because she couldn't cope'," said Dawn. "In that time, how could a single woman look after a baby?"

"It means that she loved him, to give her second child the same name."

Peter, who lives in Hunsdon, said that as he got older, he started to think more about his family.

"I have left it a bit late, but we just decided to look," he said. "It would be nice in my time of life. I'd like to get in touch. It's not going to do any harm."

"Perhaps they have been looking themselves, you don't know."

£1.5m fund to help draw up proposal for junction

ROAD users across Essex are set to benefit from a successful £1.5 million funding bid towards a new junction on the M11.

Essex County Council made the successful bid to the Department of Transport through the South East Local Enterprise Partnership (SELEP). The funding will now contribute to ongoing works designing and creating the new Junction 7A on the M11.

These plans will be shaped by the results of a recent consultation into the plans which is due to be released this summer.

Cllr Rodney Bass, cabinet member for infrastructure, said: "I am delighted at the success of our funding bid.

"Junction 7A is a very important enhancement to the M11 that we believe, and always have believed, is needed.

"ECC as highways authority, Highways England and those involved in the economic growth zone of Harlow firmly believe that Junction 7A is vital to the future of Harlow and its economic enhancement.

"We recently engaged in a consultation which has now closed not on whether junction 7A should take place, but how.

"It is vital we now move quickly to ensure residents and businesses in Essex feel the benefit of this funding as soon as possible."

Popular park transformed by £2.8m restoration work

Multi-million pound refurbishment officially unveiled to the public

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE end of a £2.8m programme of restoration works at Harlow Town Park has been celebrated with an official unveiling event.

The works included landscaping and buildings improvement works and an activity plan that has helped increase education and volunteering opportunities as well as the range of activities.

Loved

Councillor Tony Durcan, portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said: "Thanks to funding from the Heritage Lottery Fund and the BIG Lottery Fund we have been able to completely transform our much loved park and restore it to its former glory.

"It is great to see so many local families enjoying the new surroundings.

"The town park's transformation has been one big team effort with volunteers, council staff, town park user group and contractors all working together to make this once again a place to be proud of."

Among the projects to be completed since the work began in December 2014 is the restoration of the water garden. The silt was removed from the pond, pebble edging was renewed and trees were removed to open up the views. There is also new planting on the bank.

UNVEILED: Harlow Council chairman Edna Stevens cuts the ribbon to the learning centre

The Rhododendron Dell beds and footpaths have been extended and renewed. There are new planting areas, including a new winter garden, and in the Spurriers Core area.

Landscaping works also included the planting of at least 100 new trees in the Cherry Orchard, the Specimen Garden and the Winter Garden.

Building works carried out by contractor Bolt and Heeks took place at Spurriers House, with the restoration of the original 1860s house by removing the 1960s extensions and toilet block, conversion of the ground floor space into a new café and offices.

The bandstand has been refurbished, with repairs made to the roof, the installation of new doors and cladding surrounding the stage. There is also a new concrete and decking area to the front of the bandstand.

A new straw bale Learning Centre to be used for the land-based study students and school visits to Pets' Corner was also built.

The centre was the location of the unveiling event with representatives attending from the Heritage Lottery Fund, BIG Lottery, who helped fund the project, and Harlow Council chairman Edna Stevens, who gave a speech.

Regular monthly guided walks and weekly social strollers' health walks are held in the park as well as specialised walks.

A new orienteering map and markers have been produced in partnership with Chigwell & Epping Forest Orienteering Club, and weekly parkrun events, which regularly attract more than 100 participants, have been introduced.

The activity plan also included the production of a new education resource pack, which provides a programme of activities for local schools.

PROTECTION : The earth mound that has been constructed on the edge of Latton Common

'Eyesore' earth mound to help limit site access

Council work to protect Latton Common

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A ONE-METRE high mound of earth has been constructed to protect a large area of green space in Harlow.

The work is part of a series of measures put in place to protect against unauthorised vehicles driving on, and tethered horses leaving, Latton Common.

But residents say the mound is an eyesore and obscures views of the common.

On social media, Iris King wrote: "At the moment it is obscuring the view of the common from the road. Even worse if you're in a buggy or wheelchair."

The improvements, Harlow Council say, are to prevent nuisance motorbikes and quad bikes accessing the common; vehicles accessing the common as part of unauthorised traveller encampments; horses, which are tethered on the land, leaving the common and going into the road; and surface water flooding to nearby housing estates.

Approximately 1,600 square metres of earth has been delivered and temporarily piled up on one side of the common ahead of the work starting on Monday.

The work will see a landscaped mound created, approximately 400m in length, with a ditch behind it.

The level of the mound and ditch will be steep enough to stop vehicles accessing the land and horses leaving the common.

It will be no higher than the existing mound which runs from the height barrier towards Clifton Hatch. The ditch will also improve water drainage.

Once finished, and to blend into the landscape, a mix of wildflowers and grass will grow on the mound to further encourage biodiversity on the common.

Resident Mandy Mackay wrote on Facebook: "Yes it is an eyesore but it won't be that way for long."

"Once the seeds start spreading and grass has grown on it plus the birds dropping seeds, this time next year it will be green and lush."

A ditch has also been created along the northern border of the common from the existing height barrier and gate to the A14 underpass.

Councillor Danny Purton, portfolio holder for environment, said: "Latton Common is a popular area too for nuisance bikes and unauthorised traveller encampments in the past so we are taking this action to protect it and enhance existing measures which are in place."

"Unfortunately it has been a popular area too for nuisance bikes and unauthorised traveller encampments in the past so we are taking this action to protect it and enhance existing measures which are in place."

"These extra measures are also designed to stop horses leaving the land which has been a recent problem and concern for local residents. The work will also prevent housing estates from being flooding from rain water running off the common."

"Leading up to and during the work, there may be some disruption to residents and users but the final result will not affect local residents' views of the common which we know are important."

"These works are all about improving and protecting this much-loved area of land so residents can continue to enjoy it."

Hotel plan for plot of land near school

PLANS for a 46-bedroom hotel next to The Potters Arms pub in Church Langley have been submitted to Harlow Council.

The developer is hoping to build the three-storey Premier Inn hotel on scrubland to the north of the pub's existing car park off Church Langley Way and next to Church Langley Primary School.

The existing car park would be extended to create 84 spaces for the hotel and pub.

Under the proposal the school waiting area and access for nearby Church Langley Primary will be re-aligned and extended to ensure access is maintained.

A statement submitted as part of the application reads: "Landscape improvement works including a re-positioned car park entrance and wider area for drop off and pick-ups to the front of the school are also proposed along with air conditioning plant in a timber fenced compound."

The proposal has been submitted by Whitbread PLC who own Premier Inn and Brewers Fayre - who run The Potters Arms.

A poll run by the Harlow Star found that 71 per cent of the 201 participants felt the town did not need another hotel.

The town has a Premier Inn, Holiday Inn, Travelodge and Radisson.

PASSENGER PROMISE: Journey times to be cut by an average of 10 per cent £1.4bn train deal will be boost to region economy

star@hertssexnews.co.uk

ABELLIO East Anglia will provide rail services in East Anglia for the next nine years after being awarded a £1.4 billion contract by the Government.

Abellio has promised to deliver more than 1,040 new carriages and cut journey times by an average of ten per cent.

Factory

The deal will also result in a £1 billion order for 660 new carriages from the Bombardier factory in Derby.

The Department of Transport say the key benefits include:

- At least four 90-minute services (two in each direction) between London and Norwich each weekday and two 60-minute services per day between London and Ipswich
- Free wi-fi for all passengers on trains and at stations
- 1,043 new, state of the art carriages between January 2019 and September 2020 to support the faster timetable, with a full programme of refurbishment for the current fleet in the meantime
- Automatic 'delay repay' for season and advance purchase tickets

INVESTMENT: The deal should improve services for passengers including an increase in punctuality

■ Tough new targets for operational performance levels at 93 per cent – up from 89.7 per cent currently
■ A host of new ticketing initiatives, starting in October 2017, including new offers for part time users and those who don't travel every day

■ By 2021, there will be more than 32,000 more seats on services arriving at London Liverpool Street in the morning peak, while the new franchise will introduce 1,144 additional weekday services – an increase of 13 per cent – to stations including

Your view

■ David Culvert said: "Fingers crossed that there is some substance to their promises and they improve their utterly shambolic service they currently provide to their customers."

■ Matt Forman said: "Finally they can put those longer trains on to match the platforms that they promised if they got a renewed contract."

■ Leena Chakraborty said: "Given their past performance, I would have to question how they won this contract" improve journeys for people in East Anglia.

"Abellio's decision will ensure our train building industry in Derby remains strong."

"This is part of our plan to make an economy that works for everyone – not just the privileged few – by ensuring prosperity is spread throughout the country."

Dominic Booth managing director of Abellio UK, said: "This is great news – not only for Abellio but for the whole of East Anglia."

"We are pleased to become preferred bidder to deliver a transformation in rail services across the region."

Build

"It will enable us to build on the successes of the 2 short East Anglian franchises we have run since 2012, and we commend the DfT in running a transparent and rigorous procurement process."

"Our plans will greatly improve our customers' experience with faster and more reliable journeys on new trains with higher frequencies and reduced journey times, to support the socio-economic well-being of East Anglia, one of the country's most successful and fastest growing areas."

We need to ensure that punctuality is improved

■ Harlow MP Robert Halfon said: "I regularly meet with Abellio. Having won the franchise, Abellio now say that they will invest over £1.4 billion in new rolling stock, reduce overcrowding by providing 32,000 morning peak seats and improve customer experience."

"As Harlow MP and representing many Harlow residents and village commuters, I will be holding Abellio to account to these promises. "We need to ensure better punctuality, cleanliness on trains and a smart card to make it easier for commuters that work in London."

"I am contacting Abellio for an early meeting to find out what their plans for investment in Harlow and the villages will be. "The work that they have done at Roydon Station should now be replicated in Sheering and all other stations including Harlow Town station and Harlow Mill."

999 response times fail to hit Government target

Watchdog praises ambulance service care but has other concerns

star@hertssexnews.co.uk

THE East of England Ambulance Service "requires improvement", according to its latest inspection by the health watchdog.

The Care Quality Commission (CQC) found serious shortcomings in the leadership and effectiveness of the service, leading to serious failings over response times.

Inspections in April did conclude that the trust was outstanding in terms of the care it provided, the only ambulance trust nationally to achieve this.

'Delighted'

But that positive has been overshadowed by the criticisms levelled at it after the trust failed to hit the national target of responding to at least 75 per cent of the highest priority calls on time.

The CQC's other major areas of concern were broadly around recruitment and staff training, as well as ensuring its medicines were managed and stored properly.

Robert Morton, the trust's chief executive, said: "I want to pay tribute to our staff and volunteers and I am absolutely delighted that this report recognises the outstanding care we provide to patients, day in day out.

"It is a testament to all of our staff and volunteers whom provide care to patients, whether on the road or over the phone, that we are the only ambulance service to get an outstanding rating."

The CQC also interviewed more than 150 staff as part of the inspection, describing the feedback received as "positive" about working for EEA. The report concluded that the trust's effectiveness requires improvement on a number of levels, including emergency calls.

Government guidelines state more than 75 per cent of Red 1 calls, where patients are not breathing or do not have a pulse, need to be responded to within eight minutes. EEA managed 73 per cent in April 2016.

For Red 2 calls, which are still serious but less time critical than Red 1 calls, the trust failed to reach the national target of responding to more than 75 per cent within eight minutes. EEA managed 63 per cent.

Needs

CQC said that prolonged delays at some acute hospital emergency departments reduced the capacity of front line staff to respond to patients' needs.

It added that they were not assured sufficient training was in place to support staff or that supervision and appraisals were undertaken in order to provide staff effective guidance and training opportunities.

Mr Morton said: "We have made huge steps forward over the last year and this progress is reflected in the report.

"We know we have more work to do, to move us from 'requires improvement' to 'good', and we have in place a plan to address the points raised by the CQC."

Closing date approaching for £20,000 funding pot

GROUPS are being urged to apply for £20,000 funding from Essex County Council's Community Initiatives Fund (CIF).

The deadline for expressions of interest for this year's round of funding is Friday, August 26.

Applications are welcome from community groups, sports clubs, parish councils and charitable organisations within Essex.

Successful projects from previous years include new play equipment, village hall refurbishment, community gardens and allotments, nature reserves and village signs. The fund helped more than 160 community groups last year.

If successful at the expression of interest stage, applicants will be invited to submit a full application by Friday, September 21. Decisions will be made throughout November by local judging panels in each of the 12 districts.

The judging panels are made up of representatives from parish and town councils, local CVS (Community Voluntary Service) and other voluntary and charitable organisations.

Cllr Simon Walsh, Essex County Council cabinet member for environment and waste, said: "I would urge those who wish to bid for a share of this fund to apply to avoid missing out on this excellent opportunity."

For more information and details on how to apply for funding visit www.essex.gov.uk/cif.

Small changes, big difference

SIR, It started with a bang...

On Wednesday, December 3, 2014 Harlow Council ran a workshop concerning town centre regeneration, hosted by two firms; a town planner and a chartered surveyor.

About 40 people from various groups in Harlow attended. The atmosphere was positive, and some really good ideas were discussed for taking the town forward.

Since then there has been no report of the event, no feedback, and no consequent result was ever forthcoming.

Some 14 months later, on January 14, Councillor Tony Durcan – portfolio holder for regeneration – announced in the Harlow Star that it was the council's intention to make the town centre an "attractive place to visit and to spend money".

As a result of this initiative a small group of Harlow Civic Society members went on a walkabout with Cllr Durcan and David Sellings – town centre manager – on March 4.

Cllr Durcan held forth with a whole series of grandiose ideas during this walk. Civic society members had little chance to offer suggestions.

On August 2, members of the Friends of Harlow Sculpture and the Gibberd Gallery agreed that sculpture tours of the town centre were often rather embarrassing due to the depressingly run-down state of the Market Square and other areas.

It is shaming to have to conduct visitors round our enviable sculpture collection in such a poorly maintained environment. Why have simple improvements such as the following not been made:

- removal of dead trees in Market Square;
- installation of hanging baskets in Broad Walk;
- cleaning up of the areas around Adams House and Terminus Street;
- removal of unnecessary street furniture in, for example, Post Office Road?

These are all small changes that would make a difference, and, most importantly, show that the council is doing something.

At present, despite the current programme of two more town centre walkabouts, cynicism is inevitable.

READER'S PHOTO

■ Star reader Roy Whittle, of Hollyfield, Harlow, captured this image. It was taken in his kitchen through the window. He said: "This is a squirrel who hangs upside down alongside the birds' peanut feeder, prises it open and gets out whole nuts. It was taken in our garden with a compact camera at about 25x zoom from our kitchen." If you have a photograph you have taken in or around Harlow which you would like to be featured in the Star, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description of where and when it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. authorities are going to start doing their jobs and stop people from parking on pavements.

This morning while walking to the bus stop in the Summers area of Harlow, workmen with two silver vans and no company name on the side, thought it funny to be rude and fling abuse at me.

I asked him very politely if he would move his van off the pavement because there was very little room between the side of the van and the grass verge, which was up against a wooden fence of someone's garden.

My mother is 81 years old and not steady on her feet, she shouldn't have to walk in the road to get past.

The police need to stop these people. There are a lot of older people around this area, some in wheelchairs.

It is a hazard to safety and I would like to know when they are going to put a stop to it.

Thanks a million for fun afternoon

SIR, To all the helpers at Leah Manning on Thursday, August 11.

Four of us who are residents of Lutton House Close sheltered housing came to the Healthy Living and Entertainment afternoon.

To say we were amazed is the understatement of the year.

Everything was fantastic. When looking at the programme we thought lunch would consist of a sandwich and a cup of tea.

It was jacket potatoes; salad; a variety of meat; fresh fruit; scones, jam and cream. There was also orange juice, tea and coffee – oodles of everything.

Apparently the food was supplied by a business firm to whom we would like to say a big thank you.

Everyone was so helpful. From the kind lady driving the coach to all the medical advisors plus all the helpers – they worked so hard.

When it came to 'Elvis' he was fantastic. I was dying to get up and dance but no room as we were in a corner.

Thanks a million.

Raise awareness and fund research

SIR, This September is 'Women and Heart Disease Awareness Month' at the British Heart Foundation (BHF) and I'm writing to ask your readers to help fund vital research into heart disease by taking part in our 'Bag It, Beat It' campaign.

Around 28,000 women die from a heart attack each year in the UK – that's three every hour. But surveys have shown that women are less likely than men to recognise the symptoms of a heart attack and seek help.

I've donated to my local shop and I'd encourage all your readers to get involved this September and do the same. Simply fill a bag with unwanted clothes, shoes, books, handbags, DVDs, CDs, bric-a-brac and children's toys, to 'Bag It, Beat It'. All donations will help the BHF to fund life-saving heart research.

It is a sad reality that coronary heart disease is the single biggest killer in the UK, causing the deaths of over 6,560 people in the East of England each year, over 2,760 of which are women, but with the continued support of the local community the BHF can fight harder to reduce this figure.

For more information and to find your local BHF shop visit www.bhf.org.uk/bagit or to book a free collection call 0800 250 0024.

It's a wonderful way to declutter and save lives!

Another gym is not step forward

SIR, What are the management of the Harvey Centre and Harlow Town Centre thinking of? Do we really need a new gym?

The positioning of this gym within the main shopping centre where M&S used to be is not, I believe, what the residents of Harlow would like to see.

We need good quality shops not gyms. We have enough gyms in and around the area that serves the community.

Harlow Town Centre has over the past 50 or so years always been retail and used to be an exciting place to shop with a wonderful crowded market in Market Square.

This has considerably reduced and when I visit the area I am very disappointed. There is no hustle and bustle as in past years, it is a very sad place.

More exciting fashion and food shops, including interesting independent gift shops, and a department store or two are what we actually want.

This would not only serve Harlow residents but bring in people from surrounding areas and from further afield.

We have lost most of the big stores that we did have over recent years and now have to travel further afield to purchase lovely, good quality items of clothing, furniture and so on.

The article in the Harlow Star, August 11, stating "we're keeping the town up to date and moving forward" is not quite what I see. How can this be with another gym and F Hinds just moving from one location within the area to another is not, in my opinion, "moving forward".

Please consider more appropriately what really is wanted and bring the Harlow Town Centre; Broad Walk, West Square, West Walk and of course Market Square alive once again.

Where have all the fans gone?

SIR, Where have all the fans gone from Harlow Town FC?

Last season play-off semi-final nearly a 1,000 turned up to support the Hawks. Play-off final and over 1,600 flocked through the turnstiles at Barrows Farm, promotion ensued.

Last Saturday, first home game in the Ryman Premier and a very disappointing 315 made the effort to turn out.

This has to be frustrating for the club as clearly the support for our home town club is in the area.

So come on, all you from last season get behind the team and get yourselves back to the Harlow Arena.

'Without someone giving blood I wouldn't be here'

OUR CAMPAIGN: Do something amazing – help save a life

LAST week, Herts and Essex Newspapers – which includes Hertfordshire Mercury, Midweek Mercury, Herts and Essex Observer and Harlow Star – launched a campaign urging people to give blood and save lives this summer. This week, Laura Burge spoke to Kerigh Palmer, whose life was saved by a transfusion...

"IF THEY didn't give me the transfusion, I wouldn't have got any better," says Kerigh Palmer matter-of-factly. "If I wouldn't have had it, I probably would have died."

Kerigh's words, spoken so casually, reveal how one person was saved by the actions of others.

But in truth, she is one of thousands of people to have benefited from a lifesaving blood transfusion in the UK last year.

Every day, people need to undergo the procedure, whether that is because of blood loss during childbirth or an accident.

In Kerigh's case, her iron and ferritin levels were dangerously low – a by-product of dialysis.

Breath

"I couldn't walk because I was so short of breath," said the Puckeridge resident.

"I couldn't move around without getting really breathless."

"I was pretty much bed-bound."

Kerigh, picture desk co-ordinator for Herts and Essex Newspapers, is awaiting a kidney transplant and has dialysis three times a week.

The procedure removes waste products and excess fluids from the blood – but it also affected her iron and ferritin levels.

"I was at the hospital when I felt really faint, and I thought, I need to get inside the unit," she explained.

"One of the staff was coming

PROCESSING: Stocks of blood that have been donated through, and I pretty much just landed on top of her.

"I remember her shouting for help, and I remember her shouting there was an emergency."

Kerigh underwent a double blood transfusion at Lister Hospital, Stevenage, in October, a day before her birthday.

"Within 24 hours, I noticed a difference, and certainly the following day," she recalled.

"Even when I was having it, the dialysis nurses were saying to me, 'You have changed colour', because I was really quite pale."

"After the second transfusion, the colour had returned to my face."

"The following day, I could breathe normally, and probably within 24 hours I could stand up and sit in a chair and comfortably go to the bathroom without feeling I was going to pass out."

Kerigh, who was in hospital for about two-and-a-half weeks, is backing our campaign, and encourages people to give blood.

"All sorts of people have transfusions," she said.

"It's really important that people give blood – people that can, and people that are healthy."

"It's one of those things that people say, 'I'll get round to that', and people's lives are busy."

"But I don't think people realise how difficult life is when you're not fully fit."

"For some people, just getting out of bed is like a military operation."

"It's vitally important that people give blood."

VITAL TREATMENT: Kerigh Palmer during dialysis at Lister Hospital

Our staff do their bit

■ EMPLOYEES at Herts and Essex Newspapers have got behind the campaign, and pledged to donate themselves.

Harlow Star news editor Gemma Gardner spoke before attending a session this week. "I've always thought about giving blood, but like many others I've never got round to donating," she said.

"In the past few years both of my sisters have required blood transfusions during childbirth, so now it's time for me to do my bit."

"If you think that donating blood is something you can do – then please don't put it off like I did. Donate this summer."

Anne Pike, customer advisor for the Midweek Mercury, regularly donates.

"I started giving blood many years ago after one of my children had major surgery and I sat and watched the nurses bring bag after bag of blood – it made me think about the people that had donated their blood and how my son would not have survived without them," she said.

"In my experience, giving blood is easy, painless and quick. I know not everybody can give blood, but I think if you can then you should – it is such a good thing to do."

HELLO FROM CHINA: A teacher from Yangzhou Yucai Primary visits Fawbert and Barnard's

China in their hands with oriental studies

PUPILS at a Harlow school are learning Mandarin and about Chinese culture as part of an exchange programme.

Fawbert and Barnard's Primary School, in London Road, is one of seven in Essex to benefit from a link with a counterpart from the Jiangsu province established by Essex County Council.

Last month, two teachers from Yangzhou Yucai Primary visited to share their expertise with staff and pupils at the Harlow equivalent.

Councillor Ray Gooding, Essex County Council's cabinet member for education and lifelong learning, said: "We are committed to ensuring all pupils receive the best possible education."

"We continue to work closely with the county's schools to help them develop opportunities for better collaboration both here and abroad.

"International education partnerships such as this are not only beneficial in improving the teaching and learning of key subjects such as science, technology, engineering and maths, but also encourage pupils to have a wider global outlook and improve their language skills."

"I hope those involved in this project enjoy the exchange visits and embrace this fantastic opportunity to further their education."

The Yangzhou Yucai teachers were shown around the school and had the chance to experience school life and activities.

Olympian helps to inspire pupils

'Never give up' urges Athens runner Jo

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ATHENS 2004 Olympic runner Jo Mersh shared experiences with pupils from a Harlow primary school.

The former 800m and 1,500m runner, who competed under her maiden name Jo Fenn, visited Freshwaters Primary Academy, in School Lane.

Since retiring from athletics Jo has become a public speaker with 21st Century Legacy, a charity designed to inspire children to aim high in life.

She spoke to Freshwaters pupils as part of the charity's Best You Can Be campaign.

Best

Marios Solomonides, head of school, said: "We have been working with 21st Century Legacy all year with the aim of inspiring our pupils and staff to be the very best that they can be."

"We have been learning about having a plan B as well as a plan A and planning our pathway to success. We all have short-term as well as long-term goals."

"Today, Jo Mersh inspired our pupils through her assembly where she spoke of the many obstacles which made success difficult for her.

"She overcame injuries and difficult times and never gave up."

In an eight-year career Jo reached the semi-finals of the 2004 Games, in an event won by Kelly Holmes, and she also won bronze in IAAF World Indoor Championships.

She retired in 2008 after serious injuries prevented her from making the British team for the 2008 Olympic Games.

Jo is also an accomplished singer and turned down a place on BBC talent show Fame Academy early on in her career so she could focus on athletics.

Mr Solomonides added: "Madison in Year 3 wrote a song about perseverance during playtime, after the special assembly."

"She sang it to Jo and to the rest of her class. Giving our pupils opportunities to meet successful people, people who have faced adversity and yet become successful, inspires them to achieve their goals and to live their dreams."

"I know we have future Olympians at Freshwaters."

More attend top schools

MORE than nine in ten pupils in Essex now attend schools rated as good or outstanding, according to the latest statistics released by Essex County Council.

Some 91.2 per cent of primary and secondary pupils go to a school with one of the top Ofsted ratings, compared with 84.3 per cent in 2015 and 71 per cent in 2013.

The improvements are particularly noticeable at secondary level, with 95 per cent of pupils in Essex now attending a good or outstanding school – significantly above the national average of 80 per cent.

At primary level, 88.2 per cent of pupils go to good or outstanding schools – broadly in line with the national average of 88.5 per cent. Since February, all 19 of the county's special schools have also been rated as good or outstanding.

Cllr Ray Gooding, Essex County Council's cabinet member for education and lifelong learning, said: "Moving forward, we will continue to work closely with schools, headteacher associations and other partners to strive for further improvements."

The continued progress in the county comes at the same time as Essex County Council is encouraging schools to work more collaboratively through its championing of a school-led improvement model.

It is hoped that by summer 2018 all Essex schools will belong to a cluster of schools, working closely together to drive further improvements.

RANGERS CLUB

Cat cafe opens

Manchester's first ever cat cafe has opened with 11 furry residents to greet visitors.

The cats, who were all previously house cats, are enjoying their new home.

There's a 'cat room' for the furry animals to have some private time-out from the public and they even have their own toilet area, away from view. Other features in the open and spacious venue include an extensive wooden 'sky run', a personalised bunk bed for each kitty, fresh water fountains, a host of toys and tunnels, scratching posts and plenty of places to snuggle, hide and play.

But, of course, it's not all about the cats, with visiting humans able to sit back and relax on leather sofas with a coffee and piece of cake and surf the web.

The cafe is owned by Ellie and Sarah Close who set up with the cats' needs and well-being at the forefront of all of their plans.

Charity's concerns are raised

NSPCC is worried that many victims of FGM procedure endure it at young age

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

A CHILDREN'S charity is concerned about FGM practice in Essex after 15 women suffered the procedure last year in the county.

Members of The National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children (NSPCC) have warned against female genital mutilation which is illegal in the UK and extremely harmful.

An NSPCC spokesman said: "It is of real concern there are 15 recorded cases of women who have suffered FGM in Essex – particularly when we know that many victims of the procedure endure it at a young age.

Serious

"Parents should be fully aware of the fact that FGM is against the law in the UK and causes serious and long-lasting physical and emotional harm to the children it is inflicted upon."

The revealing figures, released by the Health and Social Care Information Centre, charted FGM reports logged between April 2015 and March 2016.

Nationally there were 5,702 new cases logged in the period. Doctors and nurses have been obliged to record data since July 2015.

FGM is also known as female circumcision and 65,000 girls under the age of 13 in the UK are thought to be at risk. Some are taken to other countries but many procedures take place in the UK.

Many consider FGM to be associated with religion or to have health benefits, but both of these are myths and the practice is considered a form of child abuse.

The NSPCC spokesman continued: "There is also a requirement for all professionals, families and members of the public to share information about FGM and the terrible damage it can cause on young women living in our communities.

"Only by being open and talking about this issue can we really start to reduce the number of women who are exposed to what is a barbaric act."

Harlow Council's website directs anyone at risk of FGM should be directed to Essex Police or Essex Safeguarding Children Board.

The NSPCC can also provide help and can be contacted on 0800 028 3550.

Fire claims quashed by service bosses

ESSEX County Fire and Rescue Service has rubbished claims they will not attend blazes caused by old solar panels.

Salesmen nationally have reportedly told residents that firefighters will not attend fires started on old panels as they fear being electrocuted.

Homeowners are then encouraged to buy new and expensive panels but Neil Fenwick, ECFRS head of community safety, said the claim was incorrect.

He said: "Our crews will always turn out to a fire and we have procedures in place to deal with every type of incident including fires involving solar panels.

"While all fires involving electrical currents pose a possible risk to our firefighters, we will always tackle the fire as safely and effectively as possible.

"People should not feel pressurised into spending thousands of pounds on a new system unnecessarily. Keeping people safe across the county is at the very heart of ECFRS."

GET COLOURFUL: Fundraisers are covered with paint while running around the 5K course

Fundraisers will tackle 5k colour run for hospice

More than 30 have signed up to event

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

MORE than thirty fundraisers have signed up to get colourful for St Clare Hospice this summer.

Hundreds of runners will be heading down to Nuclear Races near Ongar to take part in the Colour Vibe 5k – including some keen St Clare supporters.

The 5k race is a charity run with a difference – participants are showered along the course with brightly coloured powdered paint – making it the most colourful way to support St Clare.

Kirsten Dalby, 24, a student physiotherapist who completed a work placement at St Clare in July, will take part.

Kirsten said: “I really didn’t know what to expect when I came to St Clare for the first time – I was a little apprehensive that it would be a sad place. But St Clare is the complete opposite – it is just so uplifting.

“My five weeks at the hospice have taught me so much – and have made me want to do something to support the charity in my own way. I saw the Colour Vibe being advertised and I thought it sounded like a really fun event.”

Kirsten, from Bishop’s Stortford, is set to qualify as a physiotherapist in September and will be starting her career at Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow.

Jade Clarke, St Clare’s challenges and events fundraiser, has been encouraging supporters to sign up to the Colour Vibe: “You are the canvas and will be blasted with colour – so by the end of the race you will have become a vivid, rainbow-coloured masterpiece.”

The event is at Nuclear Races, near Ongar, and registration is open until Friday (August 19).

Entry is £15 for children up to 12 years old, £20 for adults and £60 for a family (two adults, two children).

The hospice is asking every participant to aim to raise a minimum of £48 in sponsorship.

Call Jade on (01279) 773756 or email jade.clarke@stclarehospice.org.uk for more information.

You can find out more about the event on the St Clare Hospice website at: <http://stclarehospice.org.uk/event/color-vibe-5k-run>.

Tesco stores offer free fruit for children

CHILDREN can now get free fruit while their parents are shopping in large Tesco stores across Essex.

More than 600 Tesco Extras and Superstores across the UK will be offering fruits including apples, soft citrus fruits and bananas as a “little help” to get kids to eat more healthily.

The scheme aims to get children eating healthily and is extra help towards them eating their five a day.

The idea for the free fruit came from a Tesco employee. The idea was taken up and was so well received by customers that Tesco decided to trial the initiative in Scotland to see how it might work on a bigger scale. Now it’s been rolled out in larger stores across the UK.

Target

The Government recommendations are that everyone should eat at least five portions of fruit and vegetables every day. However, research shows that only ten per cent of boys and seven per cent of girls between 11 and 18 meet that target.

Matt Davies, Tesco CEO for UK

and ROI, said: “We’re Britain’s biggest greengrocer, so we want to make it easier for parents to get their children eating more healthily.”

He added: “As a dad, I know it can be tricky getting children to eat their fruit and vegetables, so we’re hoping this initiative will help create healthy eating habits that will stay with children as they grow up.”

Free fruit is available at:

■ Tesco Superstore: East Rd, Harlow, CM20 2TG

■ Tesco Metro: 1-6 Harvey Centre, Harlow, CM20 1XN

V Festival: Your

V Festival is nearly here. It's a weekend of brilliant music, dancing and fun with your mates. But it's also really busy, there's loads of booze and (hopefully) it's a scorcher.

So what should you bring with you to make the most of it? The organisers of V Festival offer lots of top tips to make sure you have a great time – and we've added some of our own too.

BEFORE YOU GO

Record the festival coverage on TV – you can relive the memories and try to spot yourself in the crowds!

What to pack

- Your tickets and wristbands (you won't get in without them!)
- Money (pack enough as it can be hard to find cashpoints)

- ID – if you look under 18.

- Phone charger.

- Clothes: wellies, rucksack, bum bag, sunglasses, jeans/shorts, tops, underwear, hat, trainers, waterproof jacket, hoodie, long socks.

- Toiletries: condoms, mouthwash, towel, bodywash, make up, sunscreen, wet wipes, dry shampoo, headache tablets, toothbrush, toothpaste, moisturiser, toilet roll.

- Booze (in the campsites only)

- Water and water bottle

- If you're camping: tent, airbed, sleeping bag, lantern (or download a torch app), plastic bags

- What NOT to bring: Chairs, pets, air horns, fireworks, candles, glass, gas/LPG camping stoves, Chinese lanterns, offensive weapons such as knives and mallets, illegal substances.

WHEN YOU'RE THERE

Personal Safety

- Make sure you know where the emergency exits are.

- Move away from anti-social behaviour and alert stewards and police if you see any.

- Keep your phone charged so you can contact your mates if you get lost. If your battery runs out, charge it at the portable charging spots.

- Remember landmarks for where your mates are standing, and where your tent is. Also have a pre-arranged meeting place just in case you can't reach each other on mobile.

- If you see anybody acting suspiciously anywhere in the festival site, alert a steward or the police. You can also alert Crimestoppers who will be based at the festival.

- There are set capacities for The Sure Arena, The Dance Tent, The Glee Club and the Comedy tent and other tented structures. For safety reasons once they have reached capacity, no one else will be allowed in.

- Crowd surfing and moshing are dangerous and are not allowed. If you are caught doing it, it's likely you'll be ejected from the festival site without a refund.

Ill health

- If you, or someone you are with is unwell, take them to the First Aid tent. Or if you see someone who needs help.

- If you need to take medication regularly remember to bring it and let your friends know of any illness or allergies you may have and where your medication is stored.

survival guide

■ Dehydration – the sun and alcohol can cause dehydration. Apply sunscreen, wear a hat and try to drink water and soft drinks inbetween alcoholic ones. You can bring alcohol into the campsites but you are not allowed to bring your own alcohol into the arena.

■ Need advice on alcohol? Call 0800 917 8282 or visit the Drink Aware website.

■ Illegal substances – you and your belongings will probably be searched by the police or security when you arrive. They will carry out random searches when you are entering the festival campsite and arena. Do not attempt to bring in illegal substances as you stand a very real chance of being caught.

■ If you see somebody who appears to be having a bad time with drugs, tell a steward who will seek help. Do not assume that they need water. The festival has trained drug advisors on site who will help.

■ Do not accept drinks or tablets from anyone you don't know, and do not leave your drinks unattended for even a minute.

■ Further information can be obtained from the 24 hour National Drugs Helpline on 0800 77 66 00 or visit www.talktofrank.com

■ The Samaritans are available 24-hours a day throughout the V Festival if you need to talk things through with someone.

■ There is a 24-hour medical centre and other first aid points with fully qualified doctors, nurses, ambulances and St Johns staff. There are also trained welfare staffs, to help with personal problems, which are available 24 hours in the Welfare Tent. The Samaritans are also on hand to offer assistance.

■ If you need the Police, Ambulance and Fire Services, DO NOT call 999. There will be posters around the festival site with on-site emergency numbers. Programme them into your mobile phone when you get there.

Sex

■ The V Festival website reminds everyone that you can't tell just by looking at somebody what they are really like or if they have a sexually transmitted disease.

It says: "Don't put yourself in a situation where you are not in full control. If you do feel the time, place and person is right, then always let your friends know where you are going and with whom and always use a condom."

■ Visit the Welfare Tent, Campsite Control, First Aid,

Police Station or alert a Steward if you are concerned."

■ For more information on sexual health and advice visit www.playingsafely.co.uk

Valuables

■ If you don't need it – don't bring it! Money, credit cards, mobile phones, cameras, etc. should be carried with you at all times. Don't hide it in your tent.

■ If you think you've had an item stolen, go to the Welfare Tent as it may have been handed in before reporting to the police.

■ Essex Police is working in partnership with the organisers to ensure a safe and enjoyable event.

Also...

■ Have fun, have a laugh with your mates and make V Festival 2016 one to remember!

His extravagant carvings, bronzes and works on paper will come to the East of England for the very first time.

The exhibition, entitled Caught In The Act, will be a celebration of the artist, his working methods and the ideas that inspire him. His work, inspired by eggs, insects and other shapes in nature, has been displayed at the Yorkshire Sculpture Park in Wakefield.

The gallery will be transformed into a journey through Peter's artistic transitions, allowing visitors to examine techniques close up and investigate their beginnings in the natural world and the mathematics which are within each form. The journey begins with the stone carving Warp And Woof, placed in The Water Gardens just outside, creating a unique marker and a starting point for visitors to move on through the show. Sections will act as a series of acts with each part and individual artwork representing and different part of his working practice.

Searching for the big time

OUT OF OFFICE: Ricky Gervais returns as his most famous creation in David Brent: Life On The Road

David Brent: Life On The Road

COMEDY: (15) 96 mins
 Director: Ricky Gervais
 Starring: Ricky Gervais, Tom Basden, Ben Bailey Smith, Andy Burrows, Steven Clarke, Stuart Wilkinson

Our pleasure is Ricky Gervais' self-inflicted pain in David Brent: Life On The Road, a toe-curling faux documentary comedy that catches up with the politically incorrect title character as he embarks on a quest for musical nirvana with his band, Foregone Conclusion.

Life and art are blurred in Gervais' script, which plays like a cover version of his award-winning TV series The Office, replete with a wince-inducing scene of dad dancing that is supposed to attract the fairer sex.

"I'm no lothario, but he is the worst person around women I have ever seen," confesses a pitying band mate.

Without The Office co-writer

Stephen Merchant to rein in his self-indulgence behind the camera, Gervais puts his middle-aged misfit centre stage for every excruciating set piece, including a heartfelt and hilariously misguided rendition of Please Don't Make Fun Of The Disabled.

Consequently, some of the supporting players are thinly sketched and a gossamer thin romantic subplot is almost surplus to requirements.

Music reunions are always big business, so it's understandable that Gervais would want to revisit past glories here and resurrect a dithering everyman, whose lack of graces and self-awareness repeatedly cuts to the bone.

It has been 12 years since David Brent (Gervais) awkwardly ruled the roost at the Slough branch of Wernham Hogg Paper Company.

He's now a travelling salesman at Lavichem, peddling sanitary products with gusto and irritating his work colleagues including office bully Jezza (Andrew Brooke) and HR manager Miriam (Rebecca Gettings).

Brent does have a few supporters, including Pauline from accounts (Jo Hartley), who has a crush on him, and receptionist Karen (Mandeep Dhillon).

"Most people don't get him, but I do," beams fellow salesman Nigel (Tom Bennett).

Brent takes unpaid leave from his unedifying day-to-day grind to pursue his dream of music stardom as lead singer of his unsigned band.

"The ghost of Alexander O'Neal visited me one night and said, 'You have got what it takes'," explains Brent, who plunders his savings to hire a despairing road manager (Tom Basden) and a quartet of talented sessions musicians, including his nephew Stu (Stuart Wilkinson) on guitar.

A rapper called Dom Johnson (Ben Bailey Smith aka Doc Brown) joins Foregone Conclusion to bolster the band's yooof appeal as the motinuous and motley crew embarks on a tour of venues close to the Lavichem office.

David Brent: Life On The Road is peppered with uproarious one-liners and moments of skin-crawling brilliance that confirm Gervais as a master of unflattering observation.

Music performances include the stand-out track Native American and a reprise of the 2013 Comic Relief song, Equality Street.

The mockumentary conceit isn't consistent and the sentimentality of the band's final performance feels contrived, but it's nice to have some sweetness to cut through the film's acidic brand of humour.

Swallows and Amazons

FAMILY ADVENTURE: (PG) 97 mins
Director: Philippa Lowthorpe
Starring: Dane Hughes, Orla Hill, Teddie-Rose Malleson-Allen, Bobby McCulloch, Andrew Scott, Kelly Macdonald, Rafe Spall, Seren Hawkes

ADAPTED from Arthur Ransome's beloved book, Swallows And Amazons is a charmingly old-fashioned tale of messing about on the river set in more innocent times before children became zombified slaves to their parents' tablets and smartphones.

Philippa Lowthorpe's film is a valentine to the great outdoors and the wild, sprawling splendour of the British countryside, set in the mid-1930s against a picturesque backdrop of the Lake District.

You can almost feel the soft breeze rolling off the hills as the plucky heroes survey the undulating, verdant landscape for the first time, staring adoringly at an island in the middle of a lake that will become the scene for their gung-ho summer escapades.

If a British film is ever going to convince 21st century youngsters to stop swiping and start building dens and scavenging, this is it.

Certainly, parents will be charmed by the nostalgia-steeped narrative and fond memories of the 1974 film adaptation that arrived soon after the rousing success of The Railway Children.

While her husband is away at sea on a naval destroyer, Mrs Walker (Kelly Macdonald) spirits her four children – John (Dane Hughes), Susan (Orla Hill), Tatty (Teddie-Rose Malleson-Allen) and Roger (Bobby McCulloch) – away for the summer break to stay with farmer Mr Jackson (Harry Enfield) and his wife (Jessica Hynes).

En route, the children have a close encounter with James Turner (Rafe Spall), who is being chased on their train by a man called Lazlov (Andrew Scott).

Turner escapes and the children subsequently conclude that he must be a pirate and christen him Captain Flint after one of their favourite characters in Treasure Island.

Once the brood arrives at the Jacksons' farm, the children persuade their mother to allow them to sail over to an island and camp under the stars.

The outward journey is fraught with sibling rivalry and eldest child John considers abandoning the expedition.

"Only cowards turn back, this is our destiny John!" Tatty rebukes him.

Once the children set up camp, they discover the island has already been claimed by Nancy Blackett (Seren Hawkes) and her sister Peggy (Hannah Jayne Thorp), who call themselves the Amazons.

Meanwhile, Lazlo tracks down Turner to a houseboat close to the island and prepares to snare his slippery prey.

Swallows And Amazons maintains a gentle pace, anchored by solid performances from the young cast.

Enfield and Hynes provide comic relief, while Scott essays another boo-hiss villain from his expanding repertoire.

Lake District locations look glorious, even when storm clouds gather.

Screenwriter Andrea Gibb has made a few alterations to Ransome's text, most noticeably rechristening the central character of Titty Walker to avoid any schoolboy and girl sniggers.

Yes, more innocent times.

Designs for uncertain times

LARDER ORGANISING: Clean, tidy and easily accessible, what more can you want? And yes, I do make sure labels are lined up...

However you voted in the referendum, one thing is definite: we don't really know what's going to happen over the coming years and solid ground suddenly feels a bit shaky.

Whether we're going to hell in a handcart or on the road to the sunlit uplands, or somewhere in between, we're reassessing our priorities and keeping our powder dry. For us poor, much maligned interior designers, this has meant some projects shelved or scaled back or cancelled altogether. But I recognise it as a reasonable reaction and it got me thinking how we respond to large scale events that are out of our individual control, and in particular [match!] how that affects our homes and interiors. The obvious reaction is the prudent one of not committing oneself to large projects if possible until the lie of the land is clearer, but there is a second trend emerging and that is one of taking comfort in the small domestic tasks. These we can control and it gives us a satisfying feeling of order when the world is feeling chaotic. So, take advantage of the times!

Top of the agenda are all those small maintenance and deep cleaning tasks. One of the best ways of finding what needs doing is to use a hand held mirror – it shows your space in a subtly different way and you notice the grubby light switch and the unravelling sealant round the bath. If you're like me and love a good list – or at least, crossing items off a list – then compile one, going round each room and checking it out. Actually I knew I already had a list, I'd merely confused making it with doing the job. Procrastination put aside, I've now got half way down my particular list. I got great satisfaction from cleaning my stone window lintels, a messy but rewarding job, and a clear out and re-organising of my larder cupboard was ridiculously fulfilling. To the extent that I stand in front of it admiringly [well, each to their own!]. The internet is a huge resource of organising tips and DIY techniques. It was an

Other great tips:

- Avoid lids on containers you use a lot, the laundry basket, for example, as they are barrier to use
- After decorating, put a small amount of paint into a jam jar and attach an artist's paintbrush to the outside with a rubber band – great for touching up
- A power screwdriver is worth its weight in gold. And don't forget to soap wood screws for an easier turn
- Keep all your appliance manuals together [but cut out and staple the English language element and recycle the other 54 language versions]
- Painting just the skirting board freshens the whole room
- Dust your light bulbs
- Use coffee grounds to remove dirt and grease from hands. Smells good too.
- Sharpen scissors by cutting through fine sandpaper
- White vinegar supplemented with Bar Keepers' Friend for the tougher jobs are all you need for cleaning
- And finally, if anyone has the definitive solution to shoe storage that doesn't take up half the available space and is accessible, let me know....

internet tip that got me buying a cutlery tray to organise the drawer that holds all those things you don't have a home for. I must find a shorter name for that drawer too.... The FTSE index may be falling, but I know where my ball of string is – result!

In any interior, function has to have priority over beauty, whatever William Morris said about it. I flat refuse to hide my television behind a door or have an electronic picture on it. However, in most cases you can have both and, once a room is shipshape, you can get to the fun bit and create some pleasing displays. This is not about buying anything new necessarily, but seeing how things you own can look different just by moving them around, or adding in some 'found' objects. This gives you a new perspective and makes you appreciate why you bought something in the first place. Finding a wide bowl to put fruit in, adding some good looking books to the spare room bedside table, adding flowers or branches from the garden, swapping cushions from different rooms – do the changes in pattern and colour work?, moving pictures around and grouping small ones together, all these give you that fresh perspective. This is actually working with two of the fundamentals of interior design: first and foremost, it is not about individual items, it's always about how things relate to each other; secondly, it's about creating 'vignettes', small stories that express you and your ideas.

This is not just about the visual and you can extend this approach to make your everyday into something a little more gorgeous. This then works with touch too. I've been collecting handmade ceramics for years and get great pleasure out of making tea using them, they both look good and are very tactile. I find the kitchen a great place for new displays, often using food that doesn't need tucking away in the fridge and find it very rewarding to look at and then use. Because I store my pots on open shelves, this display is constantly changing as I use the pots [though, oddly, my husband always puts them back in the wrong place].

I was abroad when the referendum happened and came back to what felt like a different country, rather unsettling. Putting my house in order has felt comforting and reminded me that life is as much about the small, the insignificant, the everyday as much as the grand political upheavals – and thank heavens for that!

TEA TRAY: Some of my collection of handmade ceramics I use every day

CORKSCREW HAZEL: I cut some corkscrew hazel last Christmas to hang baubles on and liked it so much I didn't throw it out in January

By Edward Stephens

Volvo's V60 Cross Country is a strange beast in many ways, bearing a name which implies it's designed for off-road work when strictly speaking it isn't.

But while it might not have the mud-plugging grip of a heavy duty 4x4 it does have a far more rugged appearance than the standard V60 model on which it's based and for many people that's the attraction.

Black mouldings cover the wheel arches and run along the sills while silver skid plates are fitted front and rear just below the bumpers.

But while these features might just be cosmetic the Cross Country does have far more ground clearance – 65mm more – than the standard V60 and for a lot of people that extra height is a big plus point.

Not only does it mean the Cross Country will tackle uneven terrain without bottoming out but it also helps with ride comfort. The new Cross Country is a stylish, competent five-seater estate car that is a world away from the boxy estates of the past.

A low tapering roofline, side windows which gradually narrow as you go from front to back of the car and a neat tailgate all combine to make this an estate car which doesn't really look like one.

Inside this model is well laid out, everything falls easily to hand and is intuitive.

Unlike so many cars you don't have to spend a couple of hours with the manual to understand how things work.

This D4 SE model was powered by a 150bhp, 2.0-litre diesel engine mated to a six-speed manual gearbox which offered exceptionally low fuel consumption. The manufacturer claims it will average more than 67 miles per gallon and, while I never achieved that, my average was never below 50mpg.

Despite its frugality there is still plenty of power on tap with 62 miles per hour being reached from standstill in a very respectable 9.1 before topping out at 127mph.

Typical of Volvo it's a very well built car with a nice solid feel to it and to close the doors needs just the gentlest of touches.

In general it's a very quiet car too, although I did find the diesel engine a little noisy under pressure.

In the cabin there's a seven-inch display screen mounted in the centre stack and unusually it features a digital speed readout in the corner, presumably to allow the front seat passenger to know what speed they are travelling at – although in some cases that could lead to a few words.

Beneath the tailgate there's a generous 430 litres of luggage space expending to 1,241 litres with the rear seatbacks down.

One of the many little touches I liked about the car was the facility, at the touch of a button, to lower the rear headrests when there were no passengers in the back allowing better rear vision for the driver.

As you would expect with a Volvo it's packed with a host of safety features, especially as this one had the optional Driver Support Pack which included everything from pedestrian and cyclist detection to collision warning with automatic brake, which put simply means the car sounds an alarm and flashes a red light in the windscreen if it feels you are about to collide with another vehicle and if you ignore it it applies the brakes.

President: 'Cricket is thriving in our town'

Harlow CC's Howick insists clubs are alive and well

by Oliver Harbord

oliver.harbord@hertssexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Cricket Club president Alan Howick believes the sport is thriving in the town.

Much has been made over the decline of participation in cricket over recent years, with it becoming tougher for local clubs to get numbers Saturday to take part.

Harlow boasts both the club at Marigolds and Harlow Town Cricket Club, who each play in the Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League.

Harlow CC are also going through the major development of their pavilion, with a new state-of-the-art complex.

With extra funding from Sport England, the club are looking to have the facility finished by the beginning of next season.

And Howick feels that cricket will continue to grow in the town.

Dominant

He said: "With Harlow so dominant with many different sports and well-established clubs, such as a senior football club, a rapidly expanding rugby club, countless successful athlete's and grassroots football for almost every age playing, one would think there would be little chance of cricket surviving.

"Back in the 1960s there were two senior clubs [Harlow CC and Stort CC] then we also had three former village sides within Harlow.

"Add to that, most schools encouraging cricket at that level with many 'School Masters' also being accomplished cricketers playing for the two senior clubs.

"Move on fifty years and sadly one would have thought cricket has almost vanished, but not at all.

"In what appears to be a 'non cricketing town' we actually have two successful senior clubs.

"Both independent of each other, self-sufficient and growing from grassroots despite the distraction of other games and past times.

"The Stort CC reinvented itself

THRIVING: Harlow Cricket Club president Alan Howick believes cricket is strong in the town as Harlow Town Cricket Club and at the moment they field four teams on Saturdays and one on Sundays.

"Across the town in sleepy Old Harlow is where Harlow Cricket Club is based and has been since the mid-18th century.

"Possibly one of the oldest recorded areas for organised cricket being played with records going back to 1774.

"Today, after 30 plus years in time being invested in their youngsters, the club now puts out five teams every Saturday and one on a Sunday.

"But it doesn't stop there, they have teams for U9s up to U16s, then they move along into the fifth team and upwards.

"Between Saturday June 18 through to June 26, they fielded 15 teams over eight days ranging from the first XI and the other four Saturday teams, three T20 teams and colt teams.

"That is the equivalent to 165 appearances and playing opportunities throughout the club at all levels in just more than one week this season.

"But also, in addition, during the same period the club's younger Colts section produced another nine teams ranging from U9s through the U18s, all with competitive matches.

"So in total 24 games means the club created 264 opportunities to play cricket within an eight-day period this June.

"That is a remarkable statistic for the sport.

"Also, just pop down to Marigolds on any Thursday evening and you will see dozens and dozens of youngsters from five and up learning how to play the game along with their siblings.

"And better still next year, they will be sitting outside the club's new clubhouse which is due to be opened this autumn.

"So, between the two senior clubs cricket is alive and well and both clubs are energetic and enthusiastic for the future and determined to grow on their current sound foundations."

In brief

Town teetering on the edge

CRICKET: Harlow Town slipped towards the relegation spots after a 68-run defeat to Belhus.

The visitors got off to a flying start with the bat, with skipper Danny Joyce hitting 76 and brother Joe falling just short of a century with 97.

The pair put on 162 for the first wicket, while Ryan Wells' 47 not out took Belhus to a decent total of 242-3 declared.

The wickets were shared between Paul Morrell (1-30), Shaun Alderson (1-81) and Ben Eversden (1-34) in a tough afternoon for the bowlers.

Town got off to a decent start in reply, with Shiraz Ali and Bilal Ali putting on an opening partnership of 59.

However, when Bilal fell for 39 and Shiraz for 58 the wickets started to tumble.

The next highest score was Dan Farmer with just 17 as Town were bowled out in the 50th over for just 174.

That leaves Town fourth from bottom in Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League Division Two, just six points above Leigh-on-Sea who are in the final relegation position.

With just three games to go, Town have a must-win game with Hutton on Saturday, who currently sit one place below them.

The second team also suffered defeat as they were beaten at Benfleet by 130 runs.

The hosts posted an impressive 290-3, with Stephen Reeve striking 128.

In reply, Town never got close to the target, with opener Aaron Simpson top scoring with 35 as they were bowled out for 160.

The third team defeated South Woodford by seven wickets, however, with Tobias Goddard taking 3-25 and Nick Teale an impressive 3-11.

STAR: Nathan Khelawon

Young Nathan hits second ton in three games

THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD Nathan Khelawon was the star once again as he scored his second century for Harlow Cricket Club's second XI.

This time he finished on 128 not out against Oakfield Parkonians.

Harlow's first team drew their match against promotion-chasing Southend-on-Sea & EMT in what was a very high scoring game.

Having chosen to bat, Southend piled on the runs and finally declared on 328-2, with Mitch Howarde taking both the wickets to fall.

In response, the loss of early wickets meant that Harlow were never likely to threaten the target set by Southend, with the main aim to reach 200 and collect maximum batting points.

This was achieved in the final over of their innings.

Contributions

Impressive contributions were made by Hafiz Yawar with 96 and Ubaid Kiani's 70 not out.

But it was young Khelawon who was the star of the day with his tremendous 128 not out.

It was his second ton in three games and saw him out score the whole Oakfield Parkonian team.

Nathan's season to date for the second team is that in only seven games he has scored 489 runs, averaging 81.50 and notching up three half centuries and two tons in the process.

Excellent contributions were also made by Dan Stopp (53) and Jon Perry (61no).

Harlow took nine wickets but could not get the final scalp needed to seal a deserved victory, although the draw did see Harlow take the maximum 12 points available and in so doing leap-frogged their opponents into second place in the league.

Danny Stone incredibly bowled 11 overs for just six runs, while Lewis Aldred picked up 4-37 in a superb spell.

'BOROUGH TAUGHT US HARSH LESSON'

Steady start for Hawks as Ryman Premier gets going

by Matt Mundy

sportsdesk@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Town have made a good start to life in the Ryman Premier, but boss Danny Chapman believes they were taught a harsh lesson on Tuesday night.

The Hawks got off to the perfect start against Kingstonian last weekend, with Alex Read scoring in injury time to snatch the three points on the opening day of the season.

But on Tuesday night Chapman's side were made to pay for their inability to put away chances as Harrow Borough won 2-0.

And Chapman admitted that it is the nature of playing at a higher level that his team must get to grips with.

"It's been a really good start. "If you look at Saturday's game, in the first 20 minutes I thought we were a little bit apprehensive, with it being a new season in a higher league.

"But once we settled into the game, I thought we competed really well against a side that will be there or thereabouts come the end of the year.

"At half-time it could have been three each to be honest, but after half-time we came out, we were the more dominant team and I thought overall we deserved our win.

Learning curve

"I thought Tuesday night was a big learning curve for us in the respect that again we dominated the whole game.

"We made two mistakes in our own defensive third of the pitch and as I stated to the players, the higher you go, the more you get punished for mistakes, which was what happened.

"But at that other end we had five really good opportunities to score and we never took them.

"The best way to sum Tuesday night up is we've gone to a Premier side and completely dominated them, but we fell a little bit short in both boxes."

The Hawks manager was pleased, though, with how his players competed.

"As much as we're disappointed with the result, we're really pleased with the performance, how the players conducted themselves and how they went about it.

"We had a good intent about us and we stuck to what we do and how we want to play.

"On the night it was just a case of making a couple of errors, which we were punished for and not taking our chances.

"By no means is it a downside on Tuesday, obviously the result is, but we were really pleased with how we performed."

Harlow go up against Worthing this weekend, who have started like a train.

They sit top of the division, with six points from their two games.

"It's going to be a very tough game," Chapman added.

"They've started really well so they will be bang up for it and full of confidence.

"We're going to have to go there and be on top of our game if we're going to get anything from it.

"If we can perform to the levels we did on Tuesday, and cut out those sloppy mistakes and be a little bit more clinical in front of goal, then hopefully we can go there and get a result.

"There's no doubt we are expecting it to be a hard game."

The Hawks have also discovered their opponents for the first round qualifying of the FA Cup.

Harlow will host either Ryman North's Romford or Hullbridge Sports from the Essex Senior League.

Those two teams do battle this Saturday, with the winner taking on the Hawks on September 3 at The Harlow Arena.
